Furman University-Co Host

Furman University is the oldest and largest private university in South Carolina. Founded in 1826, Furman moved three times in its early years before settling in Greenville in 1850. The most recent move was in 1961, when Furman relocated to its current 800-acre location on the outskirts of Greenville. The move to the stunning, new campus served as a catalyst for Furman's ongoing transformation from a primarily regional college to one of the leading liberal arts colleges in the United States. Today Furman has 2,660 students, offers majors and programs in 42 subjects and is one of the select group of colleges that qualify for a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Undergraduates come from 46 states and 31 countries. Visit us online www.furman.edu

Southern Appalachian Botanical Society-SABS

The Southern Appalachians - the nonglaciaded mountainous areas of Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and southwestern New York – form an evolutionary center for native plant diversity for the northern temperate regions of the world. In 1936 The Southern Appalachian Botanical Club was formed at West Virginia University for "all persons interested in the botany of the Southern Appalachian Mountains." Today, the name and purpose has changed slightly to the Southern Appalachian Botanical Society (SABS) with its focus on the botany of the eastern states. The membership includes professional and amateur botanists from across the country who are interested in eastern botany, in the journal, and in the activities of the society.

Wofford College-Co Host

Opened in 1854, Wofford is an independent liberal arts college of 1,350. Affiliated with the United Methodist Church, it has one of the nation's 270 Phi Beta Kappa chapters. The 150-acre campus is recognized both as a national arboretum and a National Historic District. Wofford is noted for excellent pre-professional programs in health fields and law, for study abroad (in the top five colleges nationally, according to the annual Open Doors report); for student voluntarism, including the Bonner Scholars program; and for a creative writing concentration that includes publishing student novels. Wofford was one of 20 colleges featured in Student Success in College: Creating Conditions that Matter (2005), the formal report of Project DEEP (Documenting Effective Educational Practices), a project of the National Survey of Student Engagement
